Md. Sadrul Hasan is a Faculty Member (on Deputation) at the Bangladesh Institute of Bank Management (BIBM) and currently holds the position of Director (Research) at Bangladesh Bank, Head Office. He brings diverse experience in monetary policy, strategic planning, project management, and macroeconomic research.

At the Monetary Policy Department (2022–2026), he has been responsible for drafting the Inflation and Growth Outlook sections of the Monetary Policy Statement (MPS) since January 2023 and has contributed to seven consecutive MPS publications. He also served, in a current charge, as Member Secretary of the Monetary Policy Committee during the formulation of monetary policy for January–June 2026. His responsibilities have also included publishing the Major Economic Indicators: Monthly Update, engaging with IMF Technical Assistance missions, and contributing as a core team member in drafting Bangladesh Bank's Strategic Plan 2025–29.

Earlier, at the Research Department (2016–2022), he conducted extensive analytical and research work across several sections, including the Annual Report of Bangladesh Bank, Residential Price Index compilation, and contributed to the Annual Report of the Financial Institutions Division at the Ministry of Finance. During this period, he also coordinated multiple IMF Technical Assistance missions and organized several international events under the SAARCFinance Network.

He served as Project Manager at the JICA Project Unit (2014–2016), overseeing the FDI Promotion Project and leading multilateral negotiations for both the FDI Promotion Project and the Urban Building Safety Project. Between 2010 and 2012, at the SME & Special Programs Department, he contributed to formulating SME financing guidelines and SME policy for banks and financial institutions, and monitored SME financing activities across the sector. His early career included a tenure at the Policy Analysis Unit (2009–2010), where he contributed analytical writing to the Bangladesh Bank Quarterly and the Financial Sector Review.

Mr. Hasan holds an MA in Public Economics from the National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies (GRIPS), Tokyo, Japan, earned under a Japan–IMF Scholarship, and a BSS (Hons.) and MSS in Economics from the University of Dhaka. He has published frequently in peer-reviewed journals and led an international team of researchers from SAARC central banks on a collaborative study.
